Building Information Modeling (BIM) could bring benefits to every sector of the Architecture, Engineering and Construction industry. In this seminar, participants could get a glimpse on how BIM could bring value-addedness for Construction Project Managers and Quantity Surveyors from existing practices. We would provide the latest IT techniques on BIM and explore together why clients are interesting on BIM. The developments in BIM for quantity surveying, project management and its impact and the possible opportunities for contractors would also be gone through in this seminar.

BIM brings many challenges, but equally potential opportunities.
